German CO2 permit auction clears at 3.47 euros

Germany on Friday sold 5.025 million EU carbon permits from the third phase of Europe's Emissions Trading Scheme for 3.47 euros each, German bourse EEX said.

EU Parliament shows support for CO2 price fix ahead of key vote

The European Parliament has given its clearest sign yet that it may back a plan to rescue the EU's $148-billion carbon market after agreeing in a non-binding vote that the Commission should be allowed to adjust supply of permits.

Bulgaria backs EU CO2 market fix

Bulgaria supports in principle EU Commission efforts to prop up record low carbon prices, a day after an interim cabinet took over from the previous government, which resigned last month following protests over high energy prices.

EU 2030 emissions goal to force CO2 prices higher

An EU goal to cut greenhouse emissions 40 percent by 2030 will force industry and power stations to vastly increase their efforts to cut emissions after 2020, forcing carbon prices under Europe's Emissions Trading Scheme to rise later this decade.
